Current gas supply situation / production and supply capability still given
Status 06.07.2022

Dear Business Partner

Due to the current situation of the gas supply in Germany and the declaration of the second level of the emergency plan gas by the Federal Government, the uncertainty due to the lack of economic planning reliability is quite high among all of us.

Accordingly, we are currently receiving an increasing number of inquiries from our customers regarding a possible gas dependency of the Wetropa Group itself and of our suppliers.

As part of our sustainability strategy, Wetropa has been largely independent of gas for years. Due to the quite dynamic market situation in the last 2 years, we are in very close and continuous exchange with our suppliers and also the raw material producers, currently, of course, with a focus on the gas supply and, respectively, corresponding dependencies.

As of today / currently, we do not see any disruption of our processes - neither in material procurement / supply chain nor in our production.

As a preventive measure, we are increasingly working on research and back-ups - we are keeping our stocks high in order to remain able to supply you even in the event of sudden bottlenecks.

Should there be a change in the currently stable situation of Wetropa - and/or our suppliers - we will inform you again immediately!

Especially in times, in which such massive influences affect companies – and also private households – a fast, transparent and open exchange is essential.

Let us stay in contact.

Yours sincerely
